

Sea Search Africa

The Sea Search group is a collective of scientists and students with a strong academic background in the area of marine mammal science. Our primary focus is the production of peer-reviewed scientific research and student training. We also provide specialist consultancy services and work with industry and government to promote conservation through effective management. The Sea Search Africa volunteer programme is aimed at students and graduates looking for long term placements to develop analytical skills, conduct student projects or theses and experience real research.

Typical activities volunteers/students will gain experience in:

- Data processing and analysis
- Photo identification of animals
- Shore based tracking of animals
- Small boat work

Dates

We require volunteers to commit to a minimum of a 1 month placement up to a maximum of 6 months.

Requirements

Volunteer positions are open to current students (BSc or MSc) studying towards a Biology or Zoology related degree and recent graduates looking to gain research experience. Volunteers are expected to approach their duties with a mature and responsible attitude.

Costs

The cost to join the project is £555 for 1 month, £875 for 2 months, and £1195 for 3 months. Cost includes supervision, scientific training and ad hoc field research trips in Cape Town, South Africa. What is not included is your food, lodging, travel and insurance costs. It is mandatory for you to take out a medical/accident insurance for the duration of your time on the programme.
