Important information regarding your results

You have not yet passed all of your modules.

You must complete an exceptional referral assessment before you can complete your studies.

Please take a careful look at your transcript. There is a key to the codes used on the reverse.

A three-letter code beginning with E next to one or more elements is a referral code which means you must complete further assessment in that element for the corresponding module. An element is coursework, examination, practice, in-class test or pass/fail assessment. The other two letters indicate whether the exceptional referral is as a S same or N next attempt and how the element will be reassessed.

Here are some examples:

ENC against coursework means that you have been referred in that coursework and must complete reassessment by coursework and this would be regarded as your next attempt.

ESC against coursework means that you have been referred in that coursework and must complete reassessment by coursework and this would be regarded as the same attempt.

Instructions for your exceptional referral work will follow very shortly afterwards by email. Please ensure that you check your Plymouth University email address regularly. In the event of you failing your exceptional referral work, you may be unable to achieve your award, regardless of your performance in the other modules. It is extremely important that you ensure that we receive your completed work by 12 noon on Thursday 22 November 2018 if the form of your referral is coursework. If you have to re-sit a formal exam assessment (modules for professional accreditation) you will do so in either January 2019 or May 2019 (you will be advised of the timing in due course).

If you are unsure of anything or think that you will not be able to complete your work on time, please contact your faculty urgently.

Results of your referral

The provisional result of your referral will be available in your online Statement of Results within 20 working days of the deadline. Your referral result will be confirmed when your results are published next July.
